BUSY BIDEFORD

There was a good attendance at Church, last Sunday afternoon, when Rev. Brett preached a thoughtful sermon from Proverbs, "The Lord weigheth the Spirits." A feature of the service was the vocal music. Mrs. Almond rendering a solo and Misses Kallman a duet. The interpretation was in artistic and sympathetic manner.

One feels that with such talent in our midst we ought to have frequent musical evenings, thus supplying one of the greatest wants of prairie life.

We pass on the joke that a wag gave us and hope you smile.

"A baby was recently born to a certain minister. That night the officers of the church waited on his wife with $50 cash. The next morning when the congregation assembled, two wags stood at the church door, one bet the minister would thank the Lord for the money first, the other he would thank him for the baby first. When the reverend gentleman arose to pray he said: "Lord we desire to thank thee for this timely success." The boys are as yet undecided as to which is the winner."

We were asked this question lately, "Why are so many suitcases travelling up and down the line and what do they contain?" We know for sure that one held the "dry wash" of a certain C. P. R. man, and we were told that others contained the "wet wash" of certain Bidefordites who believe in the "internal bathing" business. Can any of the boys about town inform us if this is right?

Mrs. Staley and little son have returned from their vacation looking very much better for the change. Batching is all right for single men but life is a lonesome affair without the little people's patter.

Mrs. Conquest, the Secy of our Red Cross branch, is spending a few days in Calgary at the Red Cross rooms, hearing at first hand of the new needs that changed conditions have brought about, and also attending the Annual Meeting in the Pullisor Hotel as the official delegate from Bideford.

The Red Cross reports are to hand, for 1918, and we are glad to say our little society has done its bit in spite of crop failures and flu losses. The membership numbers 51 and that is remarkably encouraging for the size of the town. Our thanks are due to the many friends and well-wishers who made it possible for us to ship away 206 articles and to donate $125 cash.

We notice both Compeer and Kirriemuir have a good showing, and we trust that in 1919 the good work will still go on apace.

We regret to know that Misses Grace and Dove Inkster, of Edmonton, are down with the flu. Grace was hoping to begin duties at Crocusdale School, at Compeer, in March, and we sincerely hope she will recover in good time.

Mr. Robson, of the Farmers' Elevator, was in town last week shipping apples westward.

Alberta Municipal Hail Insurance

To the Editor:

I notice in your last issue a letter written by a gentleman near Loverna re the new Hail Insurance plan of Alberta, and for a misrepresentation of facts I never have seen its equal.

He states the U. F. A. did not have anything to do with the drafting of the act, while, as a matter of fact, the U. F. A. had as much to do with it as did the Municipalities. He also overlooks the fact that a member of the Hail Board has not a permanent job, but each member is liable to recall at any time. The management is in the hands of the farmers so no politician can get in on it if he wanted to. All the Board of the old Act will have to stand for re-election so it will be the choice of your representatives if they get in again. As regards their Secty not being able to get any information he could not have tried very hard as the Act has been out nine months and all the business of the Hail Board is open for inspection at any time.

As to the flat rate not being mentioned it is not mentioned because there is none. Regarding the withdrawal clause, if a farmer withdraws before the 15th of June he has no costs at all. Perhaps this "Guy" as he calls himself had a neighbor who earned a few dollars adjusting, and its too bad Guy could not have had the job.

This is a Farmers' Company, and co-operative, and as such should be supported. Are you going to let the world know you are incompetent to manage your own business and would you please ask a fine company to come in and manage it for you.

Here are a few facts re the operating expenses of Municipal insurance as against Line company insurance: Municipal insurance, average 5 years administration expenses 5%, premiums 54%.

Line companies average 5 years administration expenses 28%.

You farmers know what your premiums cost you.

The Municipal Hail Insurance does not owe a dollar to anyone, it has paid a hundred cents on the dollar on all its claims.

There will be no Government representatives on the new board, and all books and accounts are audited by a responsible firm of chartered accountants.

If Guy cannot understand the Act, its a pity, as it is so simple that a child could easily understand it.

Small Fruits on the Prairies

The records of the Indian Head Experimental Farm show that with proper care and attention a number of kinds of bush fruits can be grown successfully on the Western prairie land.

To establish a successful small fruit plantation it is almost essential to provide some kind of shelter from the ever prevailing winds. A hedge of caragana will be found quite effective. Where possible, the site selected should have a northern exposure which will have a tendency to check the growth in the spring and thus hold back the bloom, preventing killing by late spring frosts.

The land selected should be well manured and summerfallowed during the year prior to planting. After the bushes are set out the ground should be kept well worked to keep down grass and weeds and conserve the moisture.

Red, white and black currants should be planted in rows not less than six feet apart, with plants four feet apart in the rows. This will appear rather far apart at first, but will be found none to far when the bushes reach full growth.

Pruning should be done in the fall. With red and white sorts the best fruit is produced from second year wood. Therefore, the first and second year wood should always be left and the other growth removed. Black currants produce fruit on first year wood so that the older wood should be removed leaving the best shoots of the season's growth. All currants may be propagated from cuttings.

Note and Comment

It was customary for the congregation to repeat the 23rd Psalm in unison, and Mrs. Armstrong's notion of joining was to keep about a dozen words ahead all the way through. A stranger was asking one day about Mrs. Armstrong, "Who," he inquired, "was the lady who was already by the still waters while the rest of us were lying down in green pastures?"

Exchange.

In giving an account of the proceedings of Lamerton M. D. Councilors, the Free Press says: "A main road from Lacombe to Compeer passing thru Clive straight east to Mirror, thence to Nevis, will henceforth be maintained by the Provincial Government."

—Eskine Review.

The Greater Production campaigns of the last two years have demonstrated that, in the matter of production, Canadians will be equal to any demand that is likely to be made on them. But, saving is quite another thing. Canadians should cultivate it more; for what will greater production avail, unless, at the same time, there be greater saving?

Canadian enterprise will solve the problem of Greater Production. The Canadian War Savings Plan will solve the problem of Greater Saving. Through the purchase of War Savings and Thrift Stamps savings is made easy. These stamps will greatly help solve Canada's financial problem.

Yes, young man, the world owes you a living, but by the time you collect it you will be ready to give the undertaker a job.

A Time For Everything

There's a time to eat, and a time to drink,
A time for folly, and a time to think;
A time to borrow, a time to lend,
A time to save and a time to spend.
There's a time to work and a time to play,
A time to be serious, a time to be gay;
A time to laugh but no time to cry,
A time to live, but no time to die.

—The Office Poet.

As the cog-wheels in any great machine are timed to operate in unison for the effective discharge of the work in hand, so the blending of farm operations with the movement of the seasons is essential to the highest success of the agriculturist. In the great machine a false adjustment will result in disaster. In Nature's greater enterprises the farmer who does not adjust his operations to conform to her law loses seriously thereby. By adjusting his practice to a nicely with the seasons, he secures for himself the long end of the whistle-tree, whereas if his work is done out of season, even to a small degree, he is hoping for success against natural law, and is betting against the odds.

Frequently questions similar to the following are asked: "How late can breaking be done, or "How late is it safe to sow wheat?" Evidences are not wanting that in too many instances the importance of time-fulness is underestimated. In some sections of the province, breaking was still in progress last September, even though the season was unusually dry and the work was being done at a great expense of power, and under conditions which rendered it impossible to do good work, as the soil turned over in lumps. Unless the season is unusually favorable as to early rains this land will not produce a paying return if, in fact, any crop, in 1919, and will be more difficult to bring into condition for a crop in 1920 than if the breaking had been deferred until the middle of May of this coming season. If a man is anxious to dispose of his funds he could do so with less loss of energy by taking the lid off the stove and putting his crisp ten-dollar bills into the fire than to undertake to lose his money by breaking the land under these conditions in the month of September.

In considering the question of time-fulness, let every farmer endeavor to co-operate with Nature in order to secure for himself the beneficial results of such co-operation, and to avoid the disappointment and loss resulting from his failure to minutely adjust his program to Nature's great plan.

Details in regards to making hot-beds will be found in a pamphlet which can be obtained free on application to the Publications Branch, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa.
